

Conditions We Treat

People are often confused about integrative and functional medicine. Our process is to focus on correcting basic physiological imbalances and removing inflammation, stress and toxicity from the body. This method works well in chronic medical conditions. The name of the disorder is not our main concern. Our primary focus is restoring organ and cellular health. When the body is functioning in an optimal state of health; symptoms and disease states generally just fade away. This approach is called functional medicine. Integrative Medicine simply means incorporating functional and other alternative medical approaches with traditional medical approaches.

Allergies
Autoimmune Disease
Back Pain
Cardiovascular Disease
Chemical Sensitivity
Chronic Fatigue
Chronic Fatigue Syndrome
Complex Regional Pain Syndrome
Fibromyalgia
Irritable Bowel Syndrome
Joint Pain
Lyme's Disease
MTHFR Related Conditions
Headaches
Sinus Problems